WHY SHOULD I TAKE PART IN THIS STORY BRIDGE ARCHIVE INTERVIEW?

History has its eyes on us. This is a chance for young people to learn from you. It is an opportunity for you to pass on to another generation, memories and experiences of national and local events. It is a gift from you to the future.

In the age old tradition of the Seanchaí, we are asking young people to be the holders of what you tell them. It is a chance for your story and the lives that influenced you to echo through them for years to come.

WHO WILL CARRY OUT THE INTERVIEW?

Young people will be interviewing and video recording older people in their communities.

They will ask questions about your experience of COVID 19 and what you have learned during lockdown. The young people will also capture other memories and stories of local or national history. This research project is formally hosted by the UNESCO Child and Family Research Centre in NUI Galway, Penn State University and Foróige, the National Youth Development Organisation.

AGREEMENT TO PARTICIPATE

I _____ consent to participate in this research project, and to be photographed and recorded on video. I agree to answer questions about my experience of COVID-19 and also to share my memories of local and/or national history.

I consent for my identity to be used in this research, and to allow my recorded video/audio interview to be stored in line with GDPR in The Story Bridge Archive at the UNESCO Child & Family Research Centre at NUI Galway and at Foróige.

I understand that Foróige is organising potential media interviews for local and national press, television and online media outlets regarding The Story Bridge Archive.

I agree that portions of my interview can and may be used to promote The Story Bridge Archive through digital media on websites and through social media.

I understand that I have the right to withdraw at any time.
